DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Kazuo (JP 63131989). Kazuo discloses figures (1-2) an evaporator comprising a tube extension presenting an inlet and an outlet, characterized in that the tube extension comprises at least two tube portions (11a,11b) arranged in series and having different diameters, which is capable of perform the function as claimed; a transition region (the right connecting portion) has a diameter that varies gradually between the diameter of the tube portions (11a,11b) connecting between the two tube portions.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 5-6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Kazuo in view of Mitchell et al. (US 5,910,166). Kazuo substantially discloses all of applicant's claimed invention as discussed above except for the limitation that the transition region is a frusto-conical, an annular tube portion disposed orthogonal to the axis of the tube portions. Mitchell discloses (figures 1 and 4-6) that a transition region tube (64) that connects two different sizes tube portions can be a frusto-conical annular tube portion that disposed orthogonal to the axis of the tube portions for a purpose of smoothing the transition flow of the fluid between two different sizes of tube portions. It would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to use Mitchell's teaching in Kazuo's device for a purpose of smoothing the transition flow of the fluid between two different sizes of the tube portions.

Art Unit: 3744

Conclusion

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Murnane et al. (US 4,408,467) discloses a noise suppressing feeder tube for a refrigerant circuit.

Drury et al. (US 3,531,947) discloses a refrigeration system.

Baldus (US 4,169,361) discloses a heat exchanger that has a connecting tube connecting two tube portions.

Pohl (US 4,150,558) discloses a method for forming a variable restrictor.

A. R. Harris (US 2,702,993) discloses a hermetic connector.

Bartlett (EP 0407353B1) discloses a tube connector.

Phelps (US 5,755,188) discloses a heat exchanger with a transitional tube.

Fujitaka et al. (US 6,550,273) discloses an air conditioner.
